

Seven Fields Primary School-Newsletter

Dear Parents/Carers

As we get to the end of a challenging week, especially for Year 6 pupils, it feels like there have been numerous problems that we have had to face and obstacles that have needed to be overcome. Do you ever feel like that? Last week in assembly I was talking about the fact pupils needed to believe in their own ability and linked to that is the core value of resilience. We have all had to face that this week. Being able to believe we can overcome any problem with positivity and persistence is a value we all must learn in life. I was chatting to Mr Donnelly each morning this week as he was trying to organise staffing cover for Y6 pupils. It has been a bit like trying to fill a leaky bucket with problem after problem. However with persistence we have managed to make sure all Year 6 pupils completed their tests to the best of their ability and we hope that as the scripts are collected and marked externally they have given themselves a chance at passing.

The 'leaky bucket' scenario is one that I shared with children in assembly. I wanted to get them to see that sometimes you need to look at the problem yourself and find ways to fix it before simply expecting others to do it for you. I'm sure as parents, you have all felt like the old woman in this video. The exasperation and frustration that is shown in the end is classic when we come across those who cannot use their common sense. Our job as parents and teachers of course is to ensure that the children in our care can think for themselves and solve the problems they face by themselves. That is why we have the three values of independence, confidence and resilience at the heart of our mission at Seven Fields.

I hope that whatever problems you are facing at the moment, you take the opportunity to have the patience and resilience you need to overcome them.

Have a lovely weekend everyone

Mr Booth
