

Seven Fields Primary School-Newsletter

Dear Parents/Carers

Another important week has passed and the children have worked extremely hard. I have to say I have been particularly impressed with some of the persuasive letters I read from Year 4 this week. The pupils' presentation and use of cursive handwriting is really improving and I have another piece to celebrate on my Board of Brilliance.

Today is pyjamarama day. This is an official calendar day in the year organised by the Book Trust that encourages us all to read more books. You can find out more about it and donate by clicking this link. Throughout the day, whenever the special bell rang, we all stopped and read our reading books.

This week we have been focussing on the importance of respect. Respecting the difference we have and respecting each others feelings. I read the story in assembly of "Umbrella" by Elena Arevalo Melville. This is a simple story that expresses each others' needs through a magical umbrella. The point of the story is that everyone's needs are different and its only by understanding this, and by thinking of others' needs, do we get to a place of harmony and kindness. A YouTube reading from the Hamilton Trust is available here.

From next week, it is likely that there will be some changes announced by the government which include lifting the current restrictions around social interaction. From a school's perspective, very little will change. There may be some small changes to the environment but pupils will still socially distance and be kept in their bubbles, still be kept in rows and still be required to wash their hands. Some adults may choose to wear a facemask and others will not. To this end the expectation is that all adults on site will use their common sense when bringing their children to school and dropping off. We will keep the one way system in place and ask that you continue to use it. We also ask that should you gather with a friend on school site that you are sensible and wear a mask when in conversation and/or appropriately socially distance. There are still some new variants of the virus out there and I would hate for all the hard work that has been completed by the school community to be undone by shear complacency.

During next week I would like to send a questionnaire out to parents to get some feedback about how the school has improved over the last 12months and what we could do to further improve. Please do look out for it on Classdojo.

Finally I wish you all a peaceful weekend.

Mr Booth
