Seven Fields Primary School-Newsletter

Dear Parents/Carers

Have you ever heard of the proverb "one good turn deserves another"? It came to my mind when I was present at Mrs Young's assembly on Monday. She showed the video of the story of the lion and the mouse that you can watch here. It was such a relevant story as the perception of the children and some others is that a mouse is insignificant and can do no good and a lion is so magnificent that they cannot be overcome. In the story of course it is the smallest thing that gives the most help.

We try to encourage the children to be helpful all of the time and often they can feel a little bit down and become too expectant-someone will do something for me. We encourage all the children to be conspicuous by their good deeds. Children who do not give will not receive. As the famous saying goes, one good turn...

You will now have been notified by Mr Simon Robins our Chair of Governors of the arrangements to recruit the new headteacher. Mrs Young has kindly agreed to act as headteacher from when I leave next February half term and she will be ably supported by Mr Quinn and all the staff and parents.

Yesterday was the start of advent and even if you don't celebrate Christmas, it is hard to avoid some of the hype behind it. As is tradition in our school, the children made their Christingles yesterday. Do look at some of the photos on ClassDojo or in the newsletter and ask the children about their symbolism. Advent is a time of preparation and as people get ready for the Christian festival and yuletide. Often we forget that such a time of year can be as sad as well as happy experience for people. This year with inflation and the cost of living crisis, we will all be concerned about how expensive Christmas will be and at such times we often feel we must simply put our heads down and get on with things. Don't forget school is here to support you so please reach out. Remember that the smallest act of kindness can easily mean a big thing.

Enjoy walking round a Christmas market this weekend but remember the true meaning of this season is about giving. Why not give up your time to visit old friends or try to bury the hatchet with people you have distanced yourselves from.
