

Seven Fields Primary School-Newsletter

Dear Parent/Carer

Today I write to you with the knowledge that it is my penultimate newsletter for Seven Fields. Friday next week will be my last day here as Headteacher and as you might imagine, I have been reflecting on my time here. I can honestly say it has been terrific. When I first came to Seven Fields, nearly 4 years ago, I was shocked by the work that was needed but I suppose that is why the Trustees, at the time, asked me to start as soon as I could. Now so many years later, the satisfaction I see and feel when I walk around the school doing learning walks is immense as I know and have faith in the staff and the amazing aspiration they have for your children. I leave, proud in the knowledge that pupils will continue to be independent, confident and resilient and that Seven Fields will go from strength to strength. It is important that we continue the vision that has been started by supporting Mrs Young as acting headteacher from next term. Ultimately I would like to publicly acknowledge what an honour it has been and Seven Fields will certainly retain a warm place in my heart.

This week in assembly we have been talking to the children about the theme of individual liberty. What is individual liberty? Individual liberty means each of us having the freedom to make our own choices and do what we want – within reason. The within reason part is linked to the responsibility we have towards society and social justice.

“For to be free is not merely to cast off one's chains, but to live in a way that respects and enhances the freedom of others.”

— Nelson Mandela
